JILL WINANS NAMED DEPUTY DIRECTOR AT CONSERVATION SERVICES GROUP

WESTBOROUGH, Mass., June 5, 2007 — Stephen L. Cowell, chairman and chief executive officer of Conservation Services Group (CSG), today announced the appointment of Jill D. Winans as deputy director of the company's Clean Energy Markets Division. In this newly created position, Winans oversees the division's legal, policy operations and business development teams. She is also responsible for expanding the market for CSG's alternative energy products and services.

Winans brings extensive legal expertise and business ownership experience to CSG. Most recently, Winans was an attorney for six years with the law firm of Gust Rosenfeld, PLC, in Tucson, Arizona. There, she helped her clients with public works acquisitions and infrastructure development projects. She also worked with state and federal agencies on public finance projects. Prior to joining Gust Rosenfeld, Winans served as an attorney in the Law Office of Mary C. McDonald, in Glendale, Ariz., where she specialized in pre-trial litigation and settlement negotiations.

An avid equestrian, Winans began her career as the owner and operator of a dressage sport horse business in Tucson, where she ran the business for 12 years.

Cowell, said, “Jill’s experience will help CSG and its customers effectively navigate the ever changing landscape of the renewable energy field and the complexities of the market. The Clean Energy Markets Division is one of the fastest growing areas of our company and we are confident she will identify and build opportunities for expansion in this exciting area.”

Winans is a graduate of the University of Arizona, where she received a B.S.B.A. and a J.D. A California native, Winans currently resides in Natick, Mass.

Conservation Services Group, based in Westborough, Mass., is a non-profit energy services firm with 12 offices nationwide.
